

"I am the vine, you are the branches; abide in me and you will bear much fruit." John 15:5

Vine & Branches

Monthly News from St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church, 720 N. King Street, Honolulu, HI 96817 • Phone (808) 845-2112

May 2014

The Right Reverend
Robert L. Fitzpatrick
V Bishop of Hawaii

The Reverend
David J. Gierlach
Rector

The Reverend
Imelda S. Padasdao,
Priest Associate

The Reverend Dr.
Gerald G. Gifford.
Rector Emeritus

The Reverend Peter S. M. Fan,
Cantonese Language Priest

Hsiao Ying "Ajaon" Chen
Choir Director

Marie Wang
Organist

Katherine Crosier
Parish Administrator
Editor and Layout
Music Consultant

Caren Esaki
Senior Warden

David Kleinschmidt,
Junior Warden

Dawn Yadao, Secretary

Mary Ann Lentz
Treasurer

Website:
www.stelizabeth720.org

Email:
stelizabethhawaii@gmail.com

Immortal Soul or a Resurrection?

By The Rev. David J. Gierlach

Not so long ago I got an invite to listen to a Baptist minister from Texas talk about his horrific auto accident, during which time, he says in his best selling book, he took a trip to heaven.

Months after that talk, a neurosurgeon published his best selling book describing his adventures in the after life when he had an illness that caused his brain to stop functioning.

And just last week, of course we have Hollywood weighing in on the story of a young boy who also had a near death experience and comes back to tell us all that "Heaven is for Real."

Now I'll tell you, I've found these stories to be fascinating for years.

Dr. Raymond Moody, way back in the prehistoric 1970s, sort of pioneered the modern fascination with Near Death Experiences as he interviewed hundreds of folks whose heart or brain had stopped, yet came back, describing very often very similar scenes of a bright tunnel, a feeling of overwhelming love, the appearance of long dead loved ones, and then a sudden return to earth and their bodies.

So don't get me wrong, I'm not dismissing these experiences or poo-pooing them - and yet, these kinds of disembodied experiences have very little to do with the Christian faith.

The notion that we have, inherently within us, an immortal soul that exists independently of the body, that exists in some ways even independently of God, well, that's a lot of Plato and not very much Jesus.

When we come to Jesus, what we get is not an immortal soul, a disembodied spirit, going off into the heavens, what we get in Jesus is a resurrected body - the same body that was killed and dead, yet a body that is also somehow completely new, completely different, transformed.

It's true, of course, that the resurrection of Jesus is without a doubt something that is impossible to get your head around.

And because we human beings, especially we post-modern, post-enlightenment human beings, love to pretend that we are on the verge of figuring everything out, sitting down with the resurrected Jesus really is just too much!

How do you understand this strange and inexplicable Jesus who somehow looks the same so that the apostles know instantly it is him, yet who also looks so completely different that Mary Magdalene mistakes him for the gardener; who is as solid as you and I, yet suddenly appears to them on the road to Emmaus or in the locked upper room; then, just as quickly, disappears.

And so we tend to fall in love with the idea of the immortal soul that zooms into heaven while the dead body rots in the grave; not only because it's easier to understand, but for a more fundamental, more fundamentally human reason, which might be this: if we can rid ourselves of what actually happens in the resurrection of Jesus, of his fusing together of heaven and earth, of his actual, constant, totally real presence and activity here and now, if we can get rid of all that, well then, we can get back to a life where God is in his heaven and we are on our earth; where God's in control up there but, by God, we are in charge down here

And that's just how we like it, isn't it?

This is why some high mucky mucks in the church can build multi-million dollar homes, and why so many who call themselves religious are more caught up with rules and regulations rather than with love and mercy, and how the richest one-percenters can kneel in church without a thought for the folks at the bottom.

Rector's Message, continued

With immortal souls and rotting bodies, we have an earth run by human rules with only the slightest nod to the rules of heaven.

And that is not our faith.

Take a moment and consider the implications.

If a soul simply floats off into heaven, who cares about the earth?

If a soul simply floats off to heaven, who cares for anyone else, except maybe our closest family members, our closest friends?

For us, the revolution that Jesus sets in motion, the revolution of the Kingdom of God invading our world, like the ravenous mustard weed invading the garden, like yeast exploding the dough, the revolution that Jesus sets in motion says that God's way is replacing our ways, that our best thinking has been exposed for the shallow sham that it is; and that in the resurrection of Jesus, raised bodily from the grave, old and new are fused, heaven and earth are joined, and the promise is made that one day we ourselves shall likewise be bodily raised from our graves, made new as well, transformed just as Jesus is transformed.

For if heaven and earth are joined into one, then our concerns are not just for our private derrieres but for every person, for all the earth, for all of humanity, and what makes us holy is not so much our private moments with God but all that we are and all that we do in the never ending messiness that is the human life.

Nadia Bolz Weber recalls a song about a young woman who shows up in church with her hair done up in splintered glass: the title of the song being: "Father, Let Me Show You What A Resurrection Looks Like."

While disembodied souls fly up and off into the ether with nary a scar nor a bruise, when it comes to resurrection, well, resurrection takes all of our scars, all of our bruises, the physical, the mental, the spiritual, and somehow in ways we cannot grasp, changes them, redeems them, even heals them, but never ever discards them.

If our destiny is simply to be a disembodied soul forever and ever, why bother taking care of each other, or the planet, or the wider creation?

But resurrection starts with what is and then goes to great lengths to make it not nice, not cute or sweet, but new.

Hence the young woman with shards of glass in her hair: "Father, let me show you what a resurrection looks like."

Resurrection looks like the addict recovering from addiction, and the widow emerging from deep grief after the love of her life dies: resurrection looks like holes still there in his hands, holes still there in his feet.

Resurrection looks like the redeeming of God's very good creation, because the entire aim of scripture, from Genesis to Revelation, is God making all things new!

We often point to the caterpillar as a friendly example of resurrection.

A furry worm crawls into a sleeping bag and emerges later a brightly colored beauty with wings to fly on.

But the metamorphosis that the caterpillar goes through is not like lounging in the sleeping bag while sweet little wing shoots emerge.

If you cut open a caterpillar's cocoon during the transformation, what you will find is mush, black mush - and those of you who have experienced a taste of resurrection in this life know exactly what I'm talking about, don't you? Barbara Brown Taylor.

It is from the mush that something new is created, something new that carries with it what came before.

I think that this is why, when the disciples ask Jesus to teach them to pray, he gives them what we know as The Lord's Prayer.

We pray it so often that sometimes I wonder if we really hear what we are praying.

There's not a word about getting our fanny's safely into heaven.

There's not a word about an eternal afterlife.

Instead, the prayer begins by recognizing the sovereignty of God.

Because, in a creation where God is sovereign, where God is in control, there is no death.

You see it whenever Jesus goes wandering around the countryside.

Every time he comes across a dead person, that person springs back to life.

You see it happen to the 12 year old daughter of Jairus ("Talitha cum, little girl, I say to you, arise!"), you see it happen as the widow of Nain accompanies her only son's funeral procession out of the town ("Young man, I say to you, rise!"), you see it most famously with 4 day dead Lazarus.

Rector's Message, continued

Where there is Jesus, there is life: where there is God, there is life.

That's why Jesus is having none of it when the Sadducees try out the trick question on him; about the gal married to 7 brothers: whose wife will she be at the resurrection, they sneer?

And the reply of Jesus is the reply we need to hear and embrace and sit with today: God is the God of the living, not the dead.

God is sovereign is the opening sentence of the Lord's prayer.

Meaning, our lives are safe, we are assured that the God who is faithful in our life is also faithful in our death.

Knowing that, we need not spend our time fantasizing or fretting or fabricating what comes after we close our eyes for the last time; that is for the faithful God to deal with; but instead, lets get back to living the faith we have!

And so the prayer continues, asking that God's kingdom to be made real and complete and present here on earth, asking for bread just for today; for the mutual forgiveness of debts, ours and those who owe us; for protection from the enemy here and now.

The Lord's prayer is the prayer of resurrection because the resurrected life is precisely the life that lets go, utterly, completely, without reservation, into the trust-worthy hands of God, not only on death's bed, but in our awakening every morning.

The resurrected life is able to see the unity between heaven and earth, a unity made real by Jesus, and to grasp that that unity is the very ground on which we stand: it is that on which we live and move and have our being.

Every week when we pray the Lord's prayer-- we connect heaven and earth as this prayer challenges us to live our lives as if the kingdom of God were already fully here.

And I think this is the great gift that Thomas gives us this morning.

In Thomas we get a picture of the melding together of heaven and earth.

Remember when they are told that Lazarus is dying and Jesus waits two days before going to see him?

When he finally decides to go, the disciples beg him not to, for fear that the Jewish leaders will kill Jesus.

It is Thomas, brave Thomas, who says "let's go with him and we will die with him."

When Jesus gives his goodbyes and is telling his friends that he is leaving them, and assures them that they know where he is going, it is Thomas, practical Thomas, who speaks up and says: "Lord, we don't know where you're going, we don't know the way;" leading Jesus to remind them all that "indeed you do know the way, because you know me, and I am the way."

And today, skeptical Thomas won't believe a word of the good news that Jesus is raised from the dead unless he can see it for himself.

And when he is given the great grace of seeing for himself, with Jesus offering him to touch the nail holes, to feel his pierced side, insightful Thomas joins heaven and earth by becoming the first person in all of Scripture to recognize Jesus for who he really is.

The slain carpenter from Galilee is, as Thomas comes to see, "my Lord and my God!"

Thomas is a terrific role model for all of us.

We all have days when we are brave or practical or skeptical and sometimes even full of insight.

And because of that, we have a friend in Thomas, who himself lived out all of these emotions in his journey of faith.

And we learn something else from Thomas this morning.

We learn that Jesus, the resurrected Jesus, is not a disembodied spirit.

We learn that, no matter what may happen to us immediately after our physical death, that our destiny is not to be a disembodied soul for all of eternity, but rather, our destiny is to be like Jesus -- with a mind, a body and a soul; the same, yet somehow transformed.

Happy Easter!

+amen

*We were delighted to welcome
Bishop Robert Fitzpatrick on April 6th!*

Easter Day: From darkness to Light!

Well, it seems folks were falling out of the pews for our Easter Sunday celebration, what with a post 1969 record number in attendance, over 300 worshippers gathered to give thanks for the great love and grace of God given to us in the life, death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ! The bell choir joined our Sunday school youth to raise a joyful noise and they were followed by our Tongan Youth, who sang beautifully! Three were baptized, the flowers were spectacular and smiles seemed to be everywhere. Thanks to everyone who cleaned, decorated, wiped, sang, smiled, showed up and prayed!

It is a joy when so many of God's people get together, eh?

Attendance

Wednesday, April 2	21
Sunday, April 6	224
Wednesday, April 9	20
Palm Sunday, April 13	192
Maundy Thursday, April 17	28
Good Friday, noon, April 18	58
Good Friday, evening, April 18	85
Easter Day, April 20	305
Wednesday, April 22	22
Sunday, April 27	185
Wednesday, April 30	not available at press time

Did someone say Brunch???

More like the banquet halls of heaven with food from every where and every when, and as the crowds multiplied, so did the food! The Young and Esaki clans took up the laboring oar in ensuring the place was well stocked, that plates were filled and that everything was left spic and span! Aunty Nancy Au added her experience, expertise and sly dry wit to keep everyone in stitches and working hard! The Tongan youth set up everything the night before so many thanks to Fane Lino and Mel Langi and the youngsters for making it all so easy for the rest of us and great thanks to our Chuukese members who jumped right in and helped out in every part of making this, the biggest day of the year, the absolute BESTEST! (yes, I have it on good authority, that is a word.)

Visitors to Pine Point Church could sense a cliquishness among the congregation, subtle though it was.

© 1991 John McPherson. More at LeadersInJournal.net/Caricoms

March for Medical Mercy

On Wednesday, April 16, right in the midst of Holy Week, St. Elizabeth's joined with a number of community and church groups to host a March for Medical Mercy, asking the federal government to please step up and pay (as it promised) for the medical needs of our Micronesians residing in Hawaii. Some 200 folks joined in the palm waving, sign holding, bright as the sun orange shirt wearing walk from Palama to the Federal Building, where we all waved shaka and asked the community for support. Some 1500 petition signatures were gathered in only 10 days, and these were presented by the leaders of the Micronesians community to each of our congressional offices, with thanks to them for work done so far, and encouragement to do even more - so that folks who need medicine and kidneys and care will have it. Many thanks to all who joined in the fun, not the least of which were our own Padres St. Mary's Rector Greg Johnson and Diocesan Jubilee Officer Brian Grieves!!

“God sends us ten thousand truths, which come about us like birds seeking inlet; but we are shut up to them, and so they bring us nothing, but sit and sing awhile upon the roof, and then fly away.”

-Henry Ward Beecher.

“My dear boy, I was practicing self-effacement before you were even thought of.”

© 1990 NCA Hobart. More at LeadershipJournal.net/Caricoms

Sunday School News

At the start of Holy Week, with the Palm Sunday Parade, the children distributed the palms and olive branches and continued the walk around the church.

Easter Sunday the light of the Easter Christ candle was passed on to the candles held by everyone in the congregation as Kama Wong called us to worship in Hawaiian. Alleluia! The Lord is Risen! The Sunday School children made crosses during Lent which were placed around the Lenten wreath. The blessed crosses will be shared with the shut-ins, and others placed in their own homes.

Thank you to all who generously donated eggs, eggs, eggs, candy, baskets, monetary donations and candy, candy, and more candy!!! The Easter Egg Hunt was a fun treat for all! The Youth, led by James Fitzpatrick, Viliami Lino and Sarah Kleinschmidt, went shopping and put together over 60 bags of treats. Jamie Chock and her helpful group of helping hands dyed 109 hardboiled eggs...the hidiers were led by Daniel Yuen-Schat hiding the golden eggs so well only 2 of the 3 were found, and Leyna Esaki tried to keep the 'big' over-15 year olds from picking up the eggs! Tea Gierlach tried to keep the egg-cited little kids from running wild before the word 'GO' could be called.. oh, fun! It was a 'first' egg-hunt for some of the children; others asked 'what color is the golden egg?', and the real 'pros'scurried all over the yard! (Thanks, Joshua and Villiami Lino for clearing the egg hunt area and getting it ready for the kids!)

And the feast in Shim Hall! Thanks to all! Alleluia! The Lord Has Risen Indeed!

Then there was the kendama contest going on! Kendama?!? That toy with a ball on the string that you need to balance on the handle or peg of the toy... takes some coordination, skill and a lot of luck!

Sunday School will end on May 25th. The children will receive certificates of participation and a display of some of the students' work will be featured. This year Aunty Fane Lino and the older children visited other churches. They have much to share! One of the churches visited donated a bagful of plastic eggs filled with treats. The summer will find the basketball team up and practicing! They have started practices at Dole Playground and are up to the challenge! In July, 6 of the high schoolers along with chaperone, Viliami Lino, will join up with youth from other Episcopal churches around the Islands traveling to Philadelphia for a national convention. Joshua Lino will surely take a lot of photos!

Sunday School will resume on August 24th.

Safe and Happy Summer to all!

Happy Birthday

*God's blessings on those with
May birthdays!*

Richard Haller	5/2
Taylor Venenciano	5/3
Jennie Pang	5/3
Dr. Gerald Gifford	5/4
Evelyn Tyau	5/4
Mermi Dereas	5/4
Leslie Mitsuka	5/5
Kalisi Lavulavu	5/7
Michelle Lum	5/7
Preston Lentz	5/8
Katherine Roke	5/8
Margie Leong	5/10
Jessie Hayashi	5/10
Felicidad Bueno	5/12
Inoleen Eichy	5/13
Liesl Eng	5/14
Rowena Blaisdell	5/15
Iwickson Este	5/15
Chase Pacupac	5/18
Delia B. Martin	5/18
Shirley Lau	5/22
Ruby Au	5/24
Joseph Tolentino	5/24
Susana Baldonado	5/25
May Wai Hin Chock	5/26
Helen Tom	5/26
Dwight Kokubun	5/26
Greg Smith	5/26
Marjory Tyau	5/28
Dorothy Jung	5/31
Jayden Shiroma	5/31

Easter Flowers

Given in memory or in honor of loved ones

Abe, Mr. & Mrs. Harold	10	Mr. & Mrs. Sam, Jeffrey Abe, Bruce Lee, Mr. & Mrs K. C. Lau, Gerald Lau, Mr. & Mrs. Hon Yong Lee, Philip Lung, Hiram Leong, Mr. and Mrs. Masa Saleone, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Walker	Jong, Gretchen	5	Grace & Harry Goo, Lina Doo, Walter Kau, Elizabeth Wong, Nora Kurosu
Aguda, Aurora	2	Celo Aguda, Felix Sagucio	Jung, Dorothy	1	Richard Jung, Ten Fook & Mabel Ho
Antalan, Violeta G.	1		Kam, Walter K. H.	4	Raymond & Lily Tyau Kam, Lorene Kam Ching, Ramona Kam Peterson
Au, Nancy Shim	4	Robert & Rose Shim, Reginald Au, Herbert Y. F. Shim	Kau, Pearl & Francis	1	Ruth Ho Fung, Joscelind Fung Zee
Badua, Caridad	1	Elpidio Badua, Edna Barbosa, Matilde Yadao, Cristino Bugarin	Kealoha Ohana	3	Lilinoe Kealoha-Wong, James III & Shane Kealoha
Bartoline, Concisa	1	Hospicia Lapidak	Kokubun, Charles & Judy	3	Mr. and Mrs. Kokubun, Paul and Tsunao Kokubun, and Mrs. And Mrs. Nakaishi
Bush, Sarah & Jerry	1	Annie & Nathaniel Chock, Jennifer Bush	Kuniyoshi, Mildred	1	Johnny Kuniyoshi
Chee-Akana, Annette	6	Robert Chee, Hank Akana, Paul & Hazel Wong, Sam Len & Frances Chee, Stanley Won, Hon Tom	Langi, Mel & Mosese	5	Mele Langi, Cheryl Higa, Christopher Paulo, Isaiah Paulo, Arlene Glory
Ching, Patsy & Stuart	2	Richard C. & Lucy Ching, Kenneth T. K. Ching	Lentz, Mary Ann & Preston	2	Our parents and grandparents
Chock Family	2	James L. L. Chock, Yuk Oi Dang	Leybag, Victorina	1	Bernardo and Brenda Leybag
Chun Family	1	Walter T. H. Chun	Ling, Juliette	2	Alim & Elizabeth Ling
Cristina	1	Sebastiane, Catalino, Rufina, Fe Aledomo, Nestor Baby & Florencio	Madriaga, Apolonia	1
de la Cruz, Arsenia	4	Sinforoze, Amanda, Rafael, Serafina, Maria, Lina, Jose, Flor de la Cruz	Manning, Heather	1
Goo, Beryl	1	Doris Goo	Medeiros, Clara	1	Dottie Chun
Goo, Jerry & Millie	4	In thanksgiving	Naipo, Gene K.	1	Emalia Naipo
Hanawahine, Kathleen	2	Chris Hanawahine, Florencio Ceria, Jr.	Nicholas, Maile Oshita	13	Tom See-Foon, Tom Nejet-Mee, Walter Kau, Nobuo Oshita, Makahilahila, Lani, Leialoha, Ali'I, U'ilani, Ka'uipo, Chong Wing Kong, Arthur Woo
Heltz, Michael & Lotus	3	Harriet Green, Lawson Green, Stewart Green	Onoye, Helen	4	Jiro and Isao Onoye
Ho, Keith & Reden	1	Kenneth Ho	Padasdao, Iluminada	1	Florentino Padasdao, Mario Avelino, Elmer Padasdao
Hoe, Allen	2	1Lt Nainoa Hoe; RagDolls2Love	Ramos, Redemption	2	Denia, Pantoleon Ramos, Potenciano and Natividad Reganit
Hue, Raymond & Miriam	4	Rev./Mrs. Lawrence Ozaki, Rev./Mrs. Philip Fukao, John Ozaki and Mr & Mrs. Leong Kin Hue	Ramos, Tomas A.	1	Henry, Senang, Amelia
Ishida, Tom & Peggy	1	Linda H. Ishida	Sarceda, Luciano	2	Hermenegilda Sarceda
			Shea, Del	1	Ferdinand Sagucio
			Shim, Lynette	4	Wallace Shim, Edward & Florence Shim, Dennis & Laura Chun, Gervin Akana, and Benson Seto
			Suyat, Margarita	7	Luciano, Bruna, Emilio, Cresencia, Cristina, Cecilio, Herminia
			Tolentino, Joseph	1	Manuela Tolentino, Emilio & Matilde Tolentino
			Tsukamoto, Faye	2	Jack & Masa Tsukamoto, Ralph Kato
			Tyau, Mr & Mrs Roger	4	Doris & Henry Tyau, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Chong Young
			Wong, Jeanette L.	5	Daniel & Helen Lee, and Geena, Daisy, Maile (Beloved pets and faithful companions)
			Young, Arleen & Larry	4	Tim Chong & Juliet Young